Dear Andrew Thomas

Your Reference: AT/DEIJAB/051969/00009

On 21 April 2007 I received the Notice of Allocation from Brighton County Court that I have attached to this e-mail. I have also put it on my blog as Document 33.

The first thing to say is 8 May 2007 is not a convenient date for me because it clashes with a meeting of an advisory body to my local NHS Trust on which I sit. It would not be very important if I missed the Trust's meetings but I would like to avoid doing that if I can. Before I go to the Court on that question I must ask you is 8 May 2007 convenient for you and if not have you any alternative dates to suggest?

Turning now to the Notice, I wonder if we have to separately obey the Order or is it common practice to try to draw up a joint draft submission.

I have not yet heard from you in response to my letter of 12 April 2007. As I have said, I am able to hear on my telephone and I will be at home most of today.

Yours

Colin Bennett
