Dear Kate

I'm really sorry he's pestering you. I believe he has written a book called "How to lose friends and alienate people". I did receive a charming letter from two people who live at 4 St. James' Place.

I certainly have not withdrawn my objection and in fact I am going to amend it to include a request for a public hanging of you-know-who. The situation is that my objection will be put to the Council's Environment Committee in January 2004 and if the Council do not withdraw their Order then the matter will go to DEFRA (in practise, the Planning Inspectorate in Bristol). I have just this moment spoken to Stephen Dryden one of the Council's lawyers and told him that you had been pestered by Prince Charming. He confirmed that I have NOT withdrawn my application and of course he would not take any submission on that matter from anybody except myself.

Kate, I'm sorry you've been dragged into this but it might be some consolation to you that HS-V's behaviour has stiffened my resolve.

Best wishes

Colin

Dear Colin

The pest has been onto me again, complaining I never passed his email to my chairman and wanting our constitution. He claims you have told the council you are withdrawing your objection, a lie I assume.

Cd you update me?

Thanks and best wishes

Dear Colin

I'm really sorry to hear that you believe he has written a letter to your friends and family to receive a cheering letter from them. I'm at 4 St James's Place.
I generally have not raised my objection and in fact I am going to include a letter to you of warning of you-know-who. The situation is that I will be put to the Planning Development Committee in January 2004 and if the council withdraws the application the matter will go to DEFRA. In addition, the Planning Committee will consider this momentary application. I don't know one of the Planning Officers and I don't know if you had been pestered by him in the morning. He contacted me about DEFRA about my application and he said he would not take any substance in the matter from anybody except myself.
Kate, I'm sorry you've been dragged into this but it might be some comfort to know that NSV's behaviour has affected my mood.

Best wishes

Colin

Dear Colin

The post has been sent me again, complaining I never passed his email to my chairman and wanting our association. He claims you have told the council you are withdrawing your objection. Is he I assume.
Can you update me?
